Dear Mr. Evans,

Thank you for your thrilling letter of the 21st. The Chicago Tribune is well known for its imaginative content. Their reporters subscribe to the philosophy:

"Never ruin a good story by sticking to a few facts".

The editor of your little magazine appears to have added further embellishments. Please rest assured that I have never encountered any signals which might be interpreted as extra-terrestrial intelligence. I have done a lot of listening in my time.

I will be pleased to receive a copy or reproduction of your reference for my special file on these flights of the imagination.

Yours faithfully,

Grote Reber.
