

26/11/77

Editor, <sup>of</sup> Mercury:

Two years ago Milton Friedman, a professor at University of Chicago, received a Nobel Prize in economics. His lecture stated that we of the western world would not begin to get out of our economic difficulties, until we start to live within our means. I would like to hear some intelligent, responsible and interesting discussion on this Victorian idea.

Guste Reber
General Delivery
Bothwell, 7411